

REALLOCATE

Takeaways from REALLOCATE's Twinning Visit in Bologna!

Lessons from the workshops:

Engaging local communities is key to implementing inclusive mobility solutions.

Design streets that empower movement, comfort and safety for everyone.

Combining community collaboration with data-driven planning to reclaim public space for people.

Feedback from the site visits

Lasting urban transformation depends on a strategic mix of hard and soft interventions:

- ◆ Soft: Awareness, engagement & behavioural change (e.g. the Nottambula bus project)
- ◆ Hard: Data-driven design & infrastructure (e.g. school square redesigns)

REALLOCATE's recommendations

Need for prioritising accessible & inclusive urban planning

Utilise data to inform people-focused urban mobility solutions

Strengthen community engagement
